

Customer Identification Program

Important information about procedures for opening a new account.

To help the government fight the funding of terrorism and money laundering activities, federal law now requires financial institutions to obtain, verify, and record information that identifies each person who opens an account.

What this means for you: When you open an account, we will ask you for your name, social security number, address, date of birth, and other information that will allow us to identify you. We also must verify your driver's license or other identifying documents for your safety as a resident of the United States.